EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S Message

In reflecting on the past year, I am grateful for the continued growth of national and community service in Louisiana. After the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic, Louisianans are once again serving as AmeriCorps members, volunteering with local nonprofits, and strengthening communities throughout our state.

At Volunteer Louisiana, we are working with intention to open national service and volunteer opportunities to everyone in Louisiana. We have invested in recruitment strategies, elevated volunteers, and reduced barriers to service for both individuals and organizations. We have enhanced emergency preparedness capabilities in rural parishes, extended support to disability and Spanish-speaking communities, and offered administrative and leadership assistance to statewide organizations engaged in disaster response and recovery. We also hosted a National Service Training conference for the state service commission network in New Orleans. I am incredibly proud of all we accomplished in 2023 and look forward to continuing that progress in the year ahead!

Thank you for contributing to our endeavors and sharing in our vision for the future.

Judd Jeanson, Executive Director

The Volunteer Louisiana Commission continues to be a strong asset in our state. Every day I hear about the impact that volunteers and AmeriCorps members have in communities across Louisiana. We've faced many challenges these last few years, but AmeriCorps members and volunteers build resiliency and keep us Louisiana Strong. I am proud of the great work and dedication of the Volunteer Louisiana staff, AmeriCorps members, and our thousands of volunteers.

COMMISSION CHAIR'S Message

Louisiana has many challenges, but its greatest assets are the people who selflessly dig in to make things better for their friends and neighbors. The breathtaking scope of their service gives me faith that we will succeed and thrive. On behalf of all of the commissioners of Volunteer Louisiana, thank you to everyone whose service is represented in this report, and to anyone who extends their hand in times of need.

~ Kellie Duhon

LEADERSHIP IMPACT IN 2023

Service strengthens communities and brings together Americans to unite in common cause despite differences in identity, socio-economic status, faith, and political affiliation. Volunteer Louisiana is proud of the bipartisan support for national service and volunteerism at every level of government, and Louisiana is at the forefront of providing critical leadership to the national service field.

Lt. Governor Billy Nungesser has been a champion of national service and volunteerism at home and through the National Lieutenant Governors Association. He served as the keynote speaker for the National Service Training Conference in New Orleans, and was a featured speaker for the AmeriCorps 30th Anniversary kickoff celebration.

Senator Bill Cassidy serves as the Republican co-chair for the Senate National Service Caucus and has been a leading voice for protecting investments in national service in Louisiana and throughout the country.

Representative Garret Graves now serves as the Republican co-chair for the House National Service Caucus and is a strong advocate for expanding the AmeriCorps footprint in Louisiana and beyond. The VLA Team had the opportunity to meet with Rep. Graves on a visit to Capitol Hill.

Executive Director Judd Jeansonne began his second term as Board Chair for America's Service Commissions (ASC), the national organization that leads and elevates the state service commission network. The Volunteer Louisiana staff attended the 25th Anniversary Awards Gala for ASC in Washington D.C.

I am often leaning on my experiences and teachings from my time as a AmeriCorps member to ensure I am providing the support my students need.

IMPACT SPOTLIGHT

FOR PROVIDERS BY PROVIDERS

In 2023, Volunteer Louisiana celebrated a new partnership with For Providers By Providers (4PXP), a collective, independent policy voice for directors and staff of Early Care and Education (ECE) centers serving Louisiana's low-income children of color. During the 2022-2023 program year, 4PXP participated in a Volunteer Louisiana planning grant to create The Early Childhood Teacher Corps, a program designed to address the critical workforce shortage in early childhood education while providing opportunities for parents, recent graduates, career changers, and others to enter the early education profession through an accelerated program.

As 4PXP begins its inaugural year in October 2023, Early Childhood Teacher Corps members will work as teacher's assistants in one of six high-quality state-licensed early learning centers in New Orleans, where they will provide targeted support for children under age five focused on developing their literacy, language, and math skills so they are ready for kindergarten. The program prepares AmeriCorps members for careers in early learning with the ongoing training, coaching, and support needed for personal and professional growth and success post-service. In this first year, the Early Childhood Teacher Corps members seek to serve at least 500 children in high-quality Early Learning Centers.

The Early Childhood Teacher Corps reflects a new AmeriCorps state and national priority announced in August 2023 regarding programs focused on implementing or expanding access to high-quality early learning and those that prepare AmeriCorps members to enter early learning careers.

DISASTER Services

Goal Two:
Maximize the efficiency and effectiveness of volunteers in times of disaster

Volunteer Louisiana is charged in Louisiana's Emergency Operations Plan, Emergency Support Function (ESF-7) with the coordination of spontaneous unaffiliated volunteers. Volunteer Louisiana is the recipient of a competitive Volunteer Generation Fund (VGF) grant from the AmeriCorps agency. This grant award is applied to increase volunteer capacity for Louisiana's disaster preparedness, response, and recovery efforts with an emphasis on Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) trainings.

Volunteer Louisiana's 2022-2023 Disaster Services initiatives focused on the following strategic goals:

- 1) train local volunteers to build community emergency response capacity.
- 2) support new and emerging initiatives targeting youth volunteers and youth preparedness.
- 3) provide resources and support to build the capacity of statewide organizations charged with emergency volunteer management.

Partnerships & SPECIAL TRAININGS

Edward Via College of Osteopathic Medicine (VCOM)

Volunteer Louisiana teamed up with VCOM to train medical students for post-graduate placements in rural medical hospitals across Louisiana. Post-Hurricane Ida, they recognized the need for better disaster response skills. In April 2023, VLA and VCOM launched Louisiana's biggest CERT training. The annual initiative aims to create a pipeline of medical professionals ready to lead in rural communities. Funding supports faculty, staff, and student training, along with customized CERT bags. During disasters, faculty will place medical students in community shelters and the state's special needs facility.

158 medical students successfully completed CERT training, with 89% affirming improved preparedness to serve in rural communities based on VCOM's post-training assessment.

The Mayor's Office of Homeland Security in New Orleans (NOLA Ready)

Volunteer Louisiana joined forces with emergency managers and local groups to introduce CERT in Village de L'est, a Spanish-speaking community in New Orleans East. Addressing concerns raised by El Pueblo NOLA, the project focuses on high-risk community members facing evacuation fears and language barriers during weather events. VLA will allocate VGF FY23 funding for training, translation services, and resource development for Spanish-speaking disaster volunteers.

- Total Attendees: 37
- 92% of attendees indicated Spanish as their preferred language, and 52% self-reported as Limited English Proficient.
- A noteworthy highlight was the attendance of the Consulate General of Honduras.

Louisiana Commission for the Deaf

Volunteer Louisiana is enhancing capacity in the DDBHH (Deaf, Deaf-Blind, and Hard of Hearing) community, one of the largest in the United States due to Usher Syndrome. The syndrome is prevalent in Louisiana's Acadian and French ancestry. VLA collaborated with the Louisiana Commission for the Deaf to establish a statewide DDBHH CERT team. This team, comprised of trained volunteers, collaborates with emergency response professionals to address community needs, share weather warnings and emergency information in ASL, and disseminate accurate information across a private social media network of 600 DDBHH Louisiana residents. VGF FY23 funding will contribute to new training resources for this program to ensure disaster preparedness information is accessible for DDBHH Louisianans.

Trainers strengthening COMMUNITIES

Elevating Community Impact:

Meet the trainers who play a vital role in empowering others to serve.

James Colquitt

Edward Via College of Osteopathic Medicine

"As an educator at a medical school, I believe it's my duty to help prepare others by training CERT team members. Additionally, as a fellow community member, it is my responsibility to be prepared myself to respond when my neighbors need support. Getting CERT training allows me to fulfill both roles - educating others and being ready to serve my community in times of disaster. That is why I am actively involved in the CERT program."

Zack Mitchell

Iberia Parish
CERT Team Leader

"Living in an area prone to various natural and man-made disasters such as storms, tornadoes, hurricanes, rail disasters, and chemical events, I recognized the importance of community involvement. The Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) came to my attention following the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina. It remains the most impactful way for me to serve the community, assist individuals, and contribute to the overall well-being of a large number of people. This is the driving force behind my involvement in CERT."

Kelly Davis

Office of State Fire Marshal &
CERT Trainer

"I actively participate in CERT to address community needs during emergencies and events. There are ongoing opportunities for us to make a positive impact, and I strongly advocate seizing these chances to assist others. My effectiveness as an educator stems from my diverse experiences in various emergency roles, emphasizing the importance of every individual. I aspire to empower others by sharing my insights and knowledge, providing them with the tools to contribute meaningfully to their community."

Volunteerism

Goal Three:

Build a culture of service and volunteerism in Louisiana.

The Louisiana Volunteer Service Award, bearing the signature of Lt. Governor Billy Nungesser, acknowledges individuals who exhibit excellence in volunteerism. Eligibility for this award is open to anyone serving in Louisiana. Numerous organizations leverage this recognition to honor exceptional volunteers during celebrations, nonprofit events, or school ceremonies. Organizations or individuals seeking awards may also inquire about lapel pins for volunteers who contribute 150+ hours of service in a calendar year.

Champions of Service

Audry Spencer

is a retired educator serving with Empowering the Community for Excellence in Crowley. After spending 38 years in the Acadia Parish School System, Audry had a vision of supporting students at risk of not moving on to the next grade. Using her retirement fund, she opened an educational center in her grandmother's two-bedroom home and served 20 students in its first year. Over time, Audry's dedication to volunteerism and commitment to helping children in her community led to the expansion of the center's location and programming. Today, the organization operates a free four-day-a-week after-school program that partners paid certified teachers with at-risk students in small-class settings.

SOUTHWEST CHAMPION

SOUTHEAST CHAMPION

Rose Westphal

has served her community over the last 15 years through the Good Samaritan Ministry in Slidell. The all-volunteer organization runs 11 programs assisting with everything from providing basic needs such as diapers, formula, and emergency food to interviewing clients for financial aid to keep utilities connected, evictions prevented, and much more. Rose comes in daily to provide structure, key personnel support, and in-depth knowledge to community clients and a network of over 125 volunteers. Wherever a need exists, Rose is there to provide innovative solutions, compassionate care, and personal connection. Through her dedication to helping others, Rose not only helps vulnerable individuals and families in her community, she inspires and teaches others how to get involved.

Dimitri Celis

is a Serve Louisiana AmeriCorps member at Recirculating Farms, a nonprofit collaborative of farmers, educators, and activists committed to building an equitable food system in New Orleans. He believes urban agriculture, in all its different forms, is a great way to reconnect people with the environment, healthy food, and their community. Thanks to his thoughtfulness and ability to think outside the box, Recirculating Farms spearheaded an active food collection and redistribution program. The organization now collects unsold or irregular fresh food from markets, farmers, and restaurants and distributes them to community refrigerators or makes it into products that go out to the community members with low healthy food access.

AMERICORPS CHAMPION

VOLUNTEER GROUP CHAMPION

Throughout 2022, volunteers working with Bayou Community Foundation's housing recovery programs in Terrebonne Parish, Lafourche Parish, and Grand Isle contributed over 50,000 hours of service to providing repairs and new construction of homes for south Louisiana families who lost everything during Hurricane Ida. Over 350 families are now back in their homes thanks to the tireless efforts and dedication of these volunteers, many of whom were personally affected by the storm themselves.
